READING

Remember, you can't do anything better than sitting down and reading to or with your child, no matter what age they are. It's that simple.

Here is a list of useful links and resources that may help you support your child's reading, writing and oral language during the school closure.

The magnificent Storyline Online has a huge range of stories, all read by familiar famous faces, and guaranteed to entertain.

Keep an eye on Quirk's Newsagents facebook page, where Coleman is reading children's stories and updating new orders of books arriving instore.

Visit worldofdavidwalliams.com where David Walliams is releasing a new audio book every day.

readinga-z.com allows you to download books as a pdf to read and enjoy.

JOLLY PHONICS

Our Junior classes use the Jolly Phonics programme to support their literacy development. The Jolly Phonics website has a wide range of resources that will allow you to continue this work at home, if you choose to.

WRITING

Writing Legends, a comprehensive writing programme for children from 3rd-6th classes, is offering free membership until the end of July.
